

Insane "Reds"

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN
Director

Janesville Daily Gazette Information Bureau, Washington, D. C.

Chicago, Ill., July 15.—The bomb-throwers and assassins who recently have been destroying property and menacing valuable lives are without exception insane, in the opinion of Dr. William J. Hickson, director of the psychopathic laboratories of the municipal court of Chicago.

The stupid and unscientific way in which we handle men and women with diseased and defective brains is responsible, he holds, for what we call the "red menace." It is only indirectly due to political conditions. If our criminal courts and our immigration officials knew how to detect these psychopathic persons so that they could be isolated when native-born and prevented from entering the country when they are immigrants, there would be no bomb throwers or assassins. It is not a mere theory, says this expert. It is based upon a study of men and women of the type that has been terrorizing the country with bombing and bullets. Dr. Hickson has examined over 50 "reds" for the federal government and many more for the Chicago police. In almost every case he has found these persons to be suffering from specific mental disease.

Chicago Office Famous.

The Chicago psychopathic laboratory, founded by Chief Justice Harry Olson, has become famous for its scientific and successful methods of handling criminals. Judge Olson and Dr. Hickson, and Mrs. Hickson, who is her husband's chief assistant, have concluded conclusively that nearly all criminals are either insane or of defective intelligence. To sentence one of these irresponsible for a term of years, and then turn him loose again, to commit more crimes and breed more defectives, is one of the stupidest things which modern society does. The criminal insane should be isolated in colonies where they cannot commit crimes and cannot breed. In this case the criminal element could in time be almost eliminated, and the enormous sums which we pay in the form of taxes for police protection and the loss of life and property due to crime, could be greatly reduced.

This is the message which the Chicago crime laboratory has for the country. Among the several cities which have founded laboratories like that at Chicago, and in Illinois legislation is being considered providing for a colony where the criminal insane can be isolated and cared for and permanently sequestered.

"Reds" are Workings.

Now it has been found that the "reds," who have filled the newspapers with their boasts of working for the good of the country, are exactly the same type as those who commit other crime. Intelligent radicals do not throw bombs or try to shoot public officials, because such measures are futile. They do not tend in the least to change the social order. They merely outrage public opinion and make it suspicious of all radicals and of radicalism.

The leaders of all the intellectual radical groups in the United States have denounced the bomb-throwers.

The idea that there is a powerful national organization which has for its purpose the killing of the public officials is largely wrong. The men and women who throw bombs have not brains enough to organize. They are the other hand of criminals and workings of all kinds have a strong tendency to band loosely together, like children and savages. This "red" organization, which we have heard so much of, it could be brought to light and examined, would probably be found to contain a mere handful of idiots who should be locked up in an institution for the insane, together with their common misfortune, and who have no intelligible political theory whatever. Their emotional natures are unbalanced and uncontrolled by the rational part of the mind. Change and unrest which is in the air, and it generates in their diseased minds an impulse toward futile violence.

The very character of the bomb outrages, it is pointed out, should be sufficient proof that they are the work of ill-minded persons. In a series of more than a dozen attempts to blow up public officials, the bombs have not done the work and planted in houses, there was not one success. It takes no great intelligence to use dynamite with skill and success, as shown by the fact that the bombs of ordinary laborers are constantly in mining, quarrying, and road building. Yet the terrible "reds" have no success whatever, and the most daring of them have failed in blowing himself to atoms.

"Red" is Terrible Creature.

To the average citizen a "red" is as strange and terrible a creature as the blood-sucking vampire. He might interest him therefore to know something about a few of the individuals suspected of connection with bomb-throwing who were examined by Dr. Hickson. One of the most striking cases of insanity which was afflicted with dementia praecox. This form of insanity does not make him appear crazy to the superficial observer, but it produces a man who is entirely unbalanced. It gives him an irresistible impulse toward acts of violence. This man made his living by rubbing out the figure one on a lead pencil. He worked with an ordinary lead pencil. He called himself a socialist and occasionally made speeches in radical meetings which showed that he did not know anything about socialism or anything else.

Outwardly very different, but inwardly very similar was a man of some wealth who was carrying a red flag at his side. He was arrested, and showed in many ways that he was mentally unbalanced.

A woman who was arrested as a "red" was a very different type. She was 20 years old. She was diagnosed by Dr. Hickson as a high grade sociopath, which means that she had about the intelligence of an ordinary child of 14.

Assassins All Insane.

Bomb-throwers often escape, but assassins of public men are usually caught. And it is long known that nearly all assassins are insane. The man who shot McKinley was a case of dementia praecox. So was the man who recently attempted the life of Premier Clemenceau. Dr. Hickson says that this man was one who had been known from childhood to be feeble minded. He should never have been allowed to grow up. The man who killed Kurt Eisner, the German socialist leader, was of the same type, and had also long been known as a weak-minded individual.

A Greco-Argentine who was suspected of connection with bomb plots was a paranoiac, and gave abundant evidence of this.

PURPOSE OF CITY PLANNING

City planning aims to bring all the physical factors of the city to the highest efficiency standards. It aims to perfect environment in urban development. It considers housing, streets, harbors, terminals, transportation, parks, playgrounds, public buildings, lighting, sanitation, garbage disposal, schools, and in fact every function of the perfected city as parts to be developed to the highest possible limits of engineering and scientific understanding and practice yet reached anywhere in the world today.

All this involves careful study by competent citizens of what will produce the best results and the most economical and efficient way of accomplishing these results. In the service of the city should be enlisted the best engineers, scientists, leaders of all the professions and the most efficient artisans to accomplish the results desired.

City planning aims to utilize the services of all the most capable representatives of efficient service, to formulate plans for perfecting the city as a highly serviceable mechanism and to assure the carrying out of these plans by enlisting the support of all the people without extreme division or opposition.

The value of this approach to higher efficiency in city development in factors of economy and human happiness is that you begin by having a plan made with the help of all who are willing to contribute to the making of the best possible plan. Those who help plan are certain to work in carrying the plan to completion.

FORD ON WITNESS STAND ADMITS HE WAS "IGNORANT IDEALIST"

Mr. Clemens, Mich., July 15.—The things that Henry Ford thought and that his peace secretary, Theo. Delavan, wrote for him, were again the topic of examination when Mr. Ford resumed the witness stand today.

The witness, who is suing the Chicago Daily Tribune for $1,000,000 on charge of libel, was examined by Elliott G. Stevenson, senior counsel for the defendant.

Mr. Stevenson quoted the phrase, "I am a peace man," and asked whom was meant.

Mr. Ford returned his familiar reply, "Delavan wrote that."

"Your position was that they were advocating preparedness in order to profit by inventions?"

"Over preparedness, yes."

"You are still talking of over preparedness. I think you defined that yesterday as anything in addition to what we had in 1915 or 1916?"

Mr. Ford, who had referred to the use of the word "murderer" as applied by Mr. Ford to professional soldiers and those who make money out of war.

"I am a peace man," said Mr. Ford, "I am a peace man."

"What do you understand by the word 'murderer'?" asked Mr. Stevenson.

"Anything against the government," said Mr. Ford.

"It means a 'barker' put in Alfred Lucking, senior counsel for Mr. Ford, said Mr. Stevenson, 'it is all the same.'"

"What do you understand by the word 'murderer'?" asked Mr. Stevenson.

MONEY ORDER FORGER IS CAUGHT IN TRAP

Ed. Faith, alias Hayes Van Garder, has been discovered to have made from $100,000 to $150,000 by forging money orders. He presented a letter by mail to the local postoffice, the payment of the money orders each for $100. These money orders were dated June 29, which was Sunday. As money orders are not issued on Sunday except for an emergency, the payment of the orders was withheld. By inquiring at Madison it was found that like money orders had been presented at the postoffice at Madison and other places for payment. Postmaster W. A. Devine of Madison wired to Poplar Bluff, Mo., from where the money orders were sent.

It was found that there had been 200 money order blanks stolen from the postoffice at Poplar Bluff some two years ago. At that time Faith was a clerk there, and as he was in fact a postoffice employee, it would be easy for him to have obtained the blanks. When this was discovered, detectives were put on his trail and they soon found that over 100 orders for $100 each had been sent to various postoffices throughout the country.

No orders had been issued from Poplar Bluff on that Sunday, so the orders were known to be forgeries. Faith had ordered the money to be sent to Warren, Minn. The post office there was ordered to issue no mail to him. Faith immediately left Warren and was later located by the detective at Buffalo Lake, Minn. He kept away from the towns on which the forged money orders were drawn.

BOLSHEVIKI OCCUPY KOLCHAK SUPPLY BASE

London, July 15.—Ekaterinburg, 160 miles southeast of Perm, has been captured by the bolsheviks, according to a Russian wireless dispatch received here today. The town was occupied Monday.

Ekaterinburg, the center of the Ural mining region, has been one of the main supply bases of the northern wing of the Kolchak army. If the report of its capture is true, the Kolchak forces have lost their last important base north of the trans-Siberian railway at Tschelabinsk. The bolsheviks have an report that he was executed by order of the Ural Soviet on that day. He had not been discovered. Ekaterinburg was captured by Czechoslovak and Russian forces within a month after the disappearance of the former emperor. The city also was the scene of the death of several other members of the Russian royal family.

LIMIT ASKED FOR PRIVATE SUPPLIES

AUTHORITY OF CONGRESS TO FIX 1 1/2 AS MAXIMUM BREW IS HELD VALID.

ANTI-SALOON CASE HEARD IN SENATE

Prohibitionists Aim To Make Bottle In Pocket Unlawful Act.

Washington, July 15.—The authority of congress to fix one-half of one percent as the maximum alcoholic content of beverages in prohibition enforcement legislation is clear, Wayne B. Wheeler, national prohibition leader, declared today before the senate judiciary sub-committee in answering recent statements of Samuel C. intermediary, counsel for brewers.

Mr. Wheeler told the committee prohibition advocates were not asking that possession of liquors bought before July 1 for personal use be prohibited. He added, however, that they were suggesting amendments to the pending legislation to limit the amount of liquors which may be stored in private residences, so as to prevent homes from becoming speak easies. Another amendment advocated by prohibitionists, Mr. Wheeler said, is a provision for seizure of liquors in homes where it is sold illicitly.

Bootleggers will maintain their home as headquarters without such legislation," said he.

Two other amendments were urged by the witness. To prevent bootlegging he asked that the committee add a clause making more personal and physical possession of intoxicants such as the presence of a bottle in an individual's pocket—unlawful.

Mr. Wheeler also asked for sweeping search warrant powers, suggesting that seizures be authorized without a warrant, at least that warrants be issued without requiring testimony in support of requests. Otherwise, he said, liquor might be removed before officers could act.

Senators from Montana, and other committee members opposed extension of the bill's search warrant provisions and also insisted that the provisions penalizing searches with malice and without probable cause should remain.

HARVESTER EMPLOYEES STRIKE TO CLOSE SHOP

Chicago, July 15.—Between 8,000 and 10,000 employees of the Chicago McCormick Harvesting Machine Co. are on strike today for a closed shop. The trouble began last Monday when 700 men at the Weber Wagon works, a subsidiary of the International Harvester Co., voted to join the strike. Today 6,000 employees of the McCormick Reaper works went out. Today the strike spread to other plants, three of which closed.

Company officials declare the average hourly wages of the men has been increased 114 percent since June, 1914. The McCormick company is the only plant of the company where there is no union representation of equal employee representation failed of adoption when presented last March.

Secretary Edward Neckels of the Chicago Federation of Labor said the strikers had not yet formulated demands but probably would ask $1 an hour, a 44 hour week and a closed shop.

THE BEES ARE BUZZING.

It would be rather difficult to toss a stone in almost any direction at the state capital these days without at least grazing the nose of someone who has the gubernatorial bee buzzing about his ears. Perhaps that statement may be considered a little too broad, but it is true that aspirants for the honor in 1920 are thick.

Grooms for the starters in the race are getting their entries into the ring and preparing for preliminary training. The candidates themselves are ing. The candidates themselves are not overlooking any hole which will place them in the foreground when the time comes. Of course it is early to start the next campaign, but as has been the custom, tentative plans are being made before the legislative adjourns sine die, and although the people's representatives are extremely busy winding up the affairs of the session, they can find time to discuss probable candidates.

Senator Roy E. Wilcox, who gave Gov. Philip fast run for governor last election, will no doubt seek the office in 1920. He has dropped his law practice in Eau Claire and has devoted close attention to his duties in the legislature. It is said at the capital that the senator will all up his political machine as soon as his work is finished and throw it into high gear for the long race for first place in the contest. There seems to be difference of opinion as to whether he has gained headway through his legislative efforts. Some of his bills have been dealt with, rather harshly by his colleagues in the upper house and some of his opponents declare this indicates that his progress towards the governor's chair has been slowed up. His friends assert, however, that he is not depending upon the results attained in the legislature to put him solid with the voters, but that he will make a thorough canvass of the state and thereby reach those who can put him over, through personal contact.

The La Follette faction seems to be sort of "up the tree" at this stage of the preliminary. Lieut. Gov. E. P. Dithmar is known to have a desire to sit in the chief executive's chair. He has been grooming himself for the job for a long time and feels that he is now about "due." All he needs is the word from the inner La Follette circle and he will be away to a flying start. But here comes the rub. It is a question in the minds of many whether that inner circle will give Dithmar the word. A strong campaigner looms big on the horizon of that faction in the person of John J. Blaine, attorney general, who made such a whirlwind run in the last election.

No one doubts but that Blaine would be in a most receptive frame of mind to anyone who would suggest that he make the race for the governorship. Blaine's cohorts probably see in Blaine a prize-winner, and it is reasonable to expect that he will be a early choice for the blue ribbon, at least as a means of getting a line on the possibilities of winning a victory for their side.

Blaine himself is not saying anything. He realizes that he has a grasp on the situation. The remnants of Bob's organization must come to him as a prospective candidate for either governor or United States senator and he knows that upon him the senior senator's cabinet pins a great deal of faith in an attempt to rejuvenate that faction of the republican party. Blaine has many friends among the members of the equity society and he would gain quite a few votes from that organization, even though J. N. Tuttle, defeated candidate for the job of governing the state, is keen to start his campaign again.

Lawrence Whittelet has been mentioned as a candidate to succeed his present employer. He is saying nothing and it is believed that his announcement will depend upon the encouragement he receives from out in the state. It is admitted that Mr. Whittelet has a wide knowledge of state affairs and that he could follow the policy of Governor Philip without causing a ripple upon the surface of the present plan of operation.

Secretary of State Martin Hill and State Treasurer Henry Johnson would not be reluctant to receive some encouragement to make the race, and it is believed that before the final word "go" is given they will face the barrier.

Little mention has been made of soldier candidates, although the names of Gen. Charles Boardman, Oshkosh, and Col. Gilbert E. Seaman, Milwaukee, are often heard in the capital corridors.

Col. Robert McCoy, Sparta, former Monroe county judge, is looked upon with favor by many of the democrats. Col. McCoy returned with a great record from the battlefields of France. He has been called the tiger by Gen. Hagan, commander of the Thirty-second division. McCoy is an excellent public speaker and is a vigorous campaigner. Whether this is the time to enter a soldier-candidate in the lists is a question in the minds of the democrats.

THE FIRST SNAG.

Right at the outset the senate finds that the section giving Shantung composed of 40,000,000 Chinese population, to Japan was inserted in the peace treaty upon the threat that Japan would not enter the league of nations if her demands were not granted. It was openly charged by opponents of the league in the senate and admitted by supporters of the president that Wilson agreed to giving Shantung to Japan as the price of the latter's support of the league. It was stated that the president was helpless and was forced to accede to the arrangement because of this secret treaty made by Japan with England and France. Incidentally, under such conditions, the danger of tinging this country up with an alliance with England and France which provides that we must aid France in case she is at any time attacked by Germany looms greater.

It is asserted that the president did not favor the section relating to the disposition of Shantung, but gave in because he was forced to do so.

Such a condition indicates that the fabric of which the prospective league of nations is being woven is not strong to bring about the ideals for which such an organization is to be formed. If at the outset, the United States, France and England are not strong enough to be influential in forming a league of nations to insure perpetual peace without robbing 40,000,000 inhabitants of a republic of their liberty because another nation selfishly demands that territory, then it is time that we start all over.

HELP IS NEEDED.

Much encouragement is given by the action of the city council in coming out staunchly for a broad development program. It is necessary that we of Janesville strain every faculty at this time to prepare for the big things confronting us. Co-operation on the part of the council means more successful culmination of projects started. We face many problems at this time, principal of which is that of getting sufficient money to pay for the things that are necessary to do at once. Our water program calls for a bond issue of about $60,000. Following upon the heels of that is the necessity for procuring adequate funds for extension of sewerage. Then comes a big paving program. The high school has to be built as soon as human endeavor can do it. These are some of the projects which the city has before it. With the hearty support of all the aldermen, this work can be pushed rapidly and the way paved for other big plans which will grow in dimensions as the city grows.

Then there are civic problems over which the council will have no control, but which can be more easily realized if the proper moral support is given.

We must have a large, modern hotel. It will have to be built as soon as the plans are completed. It will necessitate the raising of at least half a million dollars through stock subscriptions. It will be a good investment for all our citizens. We must have some sort of an amusement park in which those who come to our city can have recreation.

All these things must be done without loss of time because as the month passes the development is gaining greater momentum and soon we will be unable to keep pace with it.

Right now the problem of furnishing places to live for those who come here, or for that matter, who are here is our greatest one. Houses must be built for those who either do not wish to buy or who cannot afford to do so at this time. Every one who comes to Janesville in the next year is not going to buy a house. Houses for rent must be built. Some one could afford to build a large apartment building similar to those recently built in Madison. They would be rented before the first brick was laid.

The action of the council in preparing for the future should inspire individuals to see the needs around them, not only benefit themselves, but the entire community, by getting behind every move that will make the growth of the city as normal as possible.

The city council purchasing committee meets tonight to decide on the make of a combination ambulance and patrol which they will purchase at once. The best obtainable is none too good for the city's use, both from an economical and a service standpoint. Experience has taught us that by buying the best sprinkler and the best truck, money and time has been saved. One consideration should be given in the purchase of an ambulance. It should be the best make that is handled in this city so that in case it needs mechanical attention a service station is at hand and no delays will result.

Senator Sherman has asked that he be allowed to look at the exemption record of Edsel Ford, son of the multi-millionaire automobile manufacturer. He doubts the document would be interesting to those fellows who left families and served Uncle Sam as soldiers on the battlefields of France at the rate of $30 per month.

The packers say the federal trade commission is unfair. The trade commission asserts the packers are attempting to monopolize the food supply of the world. It is the duty of congress to determine which side is right. When it does then immediate steps should be taken to relieve the public from the unreasonable prices which are being demanded for the necessities of life.

Uncle Sam has $18,000,000 in his jeans to be used for giving his injured soldiers, marines and sailors a vocational education. If that is not enough he knows where he can go and get some more.

The warning has been issued that now is the time to buy the winter supply of coal. The wise man will not heed the importunings of that imp. Procrastination, and "take a chance later."

German communists have started a campaign to let grain in that country. Unless that scheme is nipped in its inception a move should be made to see that those fellows are the first to starve.

LAUDER TO RETIRE.

Montreal.—Sir Harry Lauder is to retire at the end of his present contract and devote the remainder of his life to the work of obtaining a Scottish parliament in Edinburgh, according to an intimate friend who accompanied him through the war zone. Sir Harry already has rallied a strong following in support of the proposition.

PRaise.

We have praises for the roses when they're blooming white and red
And we've praises for the blue skies that are blending overhead.
The dog beside our doorway is a good dog we declare
And we praise his gentle manner with the children romping there.
We praise the trees above us just as loudly as we can.
We have praise for all that's living, but we've little praise for man.

We never think we're foolish when we praise the morning sun
Or tell in tones of exultation just how fast a horse can run.
The beauty of a landscape is a joy we're quick to tell
And we never see the blemish on the violets in the dell.
We overlook the ugly little faults in nature's plan
But it's different when we're talking of a living fellow-man.

We have praises for the roses and the singing of the birds,
For the living things about us we have many kindly words.
But we pass by friendly neighbors with a slight and careless nod
And we never think to praise them till they're laid beneath the sod.
Oh I sometimes get to wondering where this custom queer began
Of giving praise to roses and begrudging praise to man.

Q. Have men ever carried parasols?
A. Yes.

Q. Was not until the eighteenth century that the parasol became distinctly an article of feminine costume. Large and elaborate parasols have from time immemorial been a mark of honor and dignity in the Orient. In 1877, when the Prince of Wales made his famous tour, he was compelled, that he might properly impress the natives, to ride upon an elephant and have over his head a parasol with a frame of gold, and with a covering stitched with precious jewels.

Q. What is the best way to clean tobacco pipes?
A. The following is one of the simplest methods of cleaning a tobacco pipe: Cut one-half inch from the end of an ordinary cork and fit it tightly into the bowl of the pipe.

Then with a knife cut a hole through the cork wide enough to admit the nozzle of a water tap with a little pressure, turn on the water, and the pipe is sufficiently strong and let it run until the pipe is clean.

OLD-FASHIONED WONDER.

The most famous cavern in America is Mammoth cave in Kentucky. Mammoth cave was an old Indian refuge, and the story of redskin adventures is written plain in the skeletons of tomahawks and reed torches that have been found in the cavern depths. Then in 1809, a white man, a pioneer hunter, followed a wounded bear into the mouth of the great cave, and from that time on Mammoth cave became in American estimation the eighth wonder of the world.

Almost as soon as the white man discovered the cavern he began to make practical use of it. Long before the era of Indian possession, bats had inhabited the cavern halls and in the course of time their skeletons had accumulated on the floor, especially near the entrance. The skeletons, containing nitrate, played an important part in the war of 1812, for nitrate, so needed in making explosives, was scarce in the colonies, and the Mammoth cave became the main source of supply.

When the country settled down to a period of comfortable prosperity, Mammoth cave became, even more than it is today, a great show place of America. The cave's history is told in the names of the various rooms and galleries. Jenny Lind and other artists visited the cave and sang and played the airs that have made them famous in "Old Bull's Concert Hall."

In a room since named "Booth's Amphitheater" Edwin Booth was inspired to declaim some of the lines of Hamlet before a small and select audience.

A score or more weddings have taken place in the weird and beautiful galleries, especially before the "Bridal Altar." President Cleveland, on his visit to the cavern, was accompanied by his cabinet, whereupon an avenue a mile long was named "President's Cabinet."

Nearly 200 miles of corridors have been explored in the century since Mammoth cave became famous. Two years ago a new era of cavern history was opened up when electric lights were installed to take the place of the old torches and lanterns which had previously been the only means of lighting the pitch blackness of the interior.

The other banks more or less show an increase in savings since July 1, and many accounts are drawn then.

JAPAN TO STICK BY PLEDGES TO RESPECT SHANTUNG

(BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS.)
Washington, July 16.—Japan may issue soon an official declaration to the world that she will abide strictly by the pledges made by her representatives at the peace conference that the territorial integrity of the Shantung province will be retained certain economic rights within the Chinese province which she wrested from Germany during the war.

This was ascertained today not only from democratic senators who have been in close touch with the white house since President Wilson's recent return to Paris, but from republican senators who claimed to possess from trustworthy sources, information regarding the Shantung settlement.

The democratic senators expressed the hope that Japan would not delay in making her attitude toward the Shantung question sufficiently clear as to leave no doubt as to her intentions regarding the Chinese province. By doing so, Japan would do much to clarify the situation, they added, and thereby greatly assist President Wilson's supporters in the bitter opposition which has developed in that body to the ratification of the peace treaty with the Shantung settlement as one of its provisions.

PUBLIC COMFORT STATION CODE FRAMED

Madison, July 16.—A new law now in effect requires all Wisconsin cities and villages to provide public comfort stations. This law, which measures are included by Assemblyman Carter at the request of the state board of health, and supported by the state council of defense (women's division), the state federation of women's clubs, state federation of labor, the state highway commission, and hotel men.

Pursuant to the act, the state board of health is formulating for cities and villages and other assisted communities, the location of such stations as to convenience and safety, and their construction and care. The state board is in a position to give advice and assistance in the construction of such stations.

It is expected that in a large number of places, public comfort stations will be erected in connection with existing public buildings, such as city and village halls, libraries, fire and police stations, etc., thus assuring maintenance service by municipal measures, central location and low expense of installation. It is believed, however, that many municipalities will make the most of the opportunity by building modern and highly convenient structures at favorable places.

The Wisconsin highway commission views the enactment of this law with much favor, seeing in it a solution of the problem of providing toilet facilities for motor and other parties traveling on country roads.

"GARBAGE ORDINANCE UNCONSTITUTIONAL" CHARLES PIERCE SAYS

Once again the much mooted garbage ordinance is up for discussion and this time Attorney Charles Pierce took a stand for the ordinance. Mr. Pierce said that the ordinance was unconstitutional and would not stand.

"It does not require the knowledge of a lawyer to see that the ordinance is unconstitutional," Mr. Pierce said today. "I am in favor of a garbage ordinance and I had hoped that the city would straighten the matter out at the next meeting."

Mr. Pierce said that the city of Janesville had no right to tell one or two men that they could collect the garbage in the city and no one else would be allowed to compete with them.

"Garbage is public property and the city cannot take public property away," Mr. Pierce said.

The garbage ordinance adopted by the city council several weeks ago calls for the garbage to be collected in closed containers in conformity with the laws of sanitation. When the ordinance was adopted, the contract for collecting the garbage was awarded to Edward Wolez and George Strunz.

Since that time the two men have collected a reported 100 tons of garbage being collected by others throughout the city and they asserted they were operating at a loss. Finally they had Ole Knudson and J. W. Reed taken to court. The case was held open by Judge Maxfield.

At the last meeting of the council, Alderman Dulin moved that Mr. Knudson and Mr. Reed be denied the right to collect garbage. Mr. Pierce did not say what steps he intended to take relative to the matter.

Pennsylvanian's Search for Rainbow Treasure

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Greensburg, Pa.—Is there any literal truth in the old adage which says that at the end of every rainbow there is a pot of gold?

W. H. Fry, of this place, believes there is and intends to put it to a test. Fry was driving along a country road near here during a thunderstorm. The rainbow that followed, he says, "ran right into earth history. Fry carefully marked the spot and soon there will be a hunt for treasure."

Some 175 years ago General Bradock led a company of British soldiers through the country here on their way to drive the French and Indians from their stronghold in Pittsburgh. The little force was ambushed and routed. When the situation seemed hopeless Bradock ordered his paymasters to bury some 50,000 pounds of English gold and silver so that it might not fall into the hands of the enemy. This was done and the gold has never been recovered, so the English were almost annihilated before they could get back to safety.

Has the rainbow shown the hiding place? Fry should know soon.

TIP BY SPIRIT TO FIND A LOST MANUSCRIPT

Philadelphia.—Dr. Joseph Leidy, Jr., a neurologist, is running out a "spirits" tip in an attempt to find a manuscript lost about fifty years ago. He told of how a few weeks ago he attended a seance and the medium mentioned a lost paper that Dr. Leidy had been working on with the late Dr. S. Weir Mitchell, and said that it could be found in an attic of a certain house. Dr. Leidy is going to search the attic. "I think enough of spiritualism and rumor to do that," he said.

THE WISHING PLANE

Jack was still thinking about the ruins and what great sport it would be to get some of the boys together and play robber among them, when he went to bed that night.

The next morning he asked Lady-dear and the queen if he might not get some of the peasant boys to join him in a game of the old castle. They told him he might go, so Jack started off to get the boys. Jane and Jeanne were told they might visit some of the little girls in the cottage. In the first time Jack and his friends were having a great time among the ruins.

They finally decided to play hide and seek. Hoping to find a place to hide where he could not be found, Jack wandered into a part of the cellar which he had not found before. He hid himself behind a suit of armor leaning against the wall. While waiting for one of the boys to find him, Jack heard a noise at the other end of the room. In the dim light that came down through a stairway Jack saw a man, feel his way along the wall and presently reach his hand under a heavy stone leaning against the wall. As if by magic, a section of the wall about the size of an ordinary door moved slowly outward. Inside the door, gun in hand, stood another man. The first man stepped quickly through the hole in the wall, and touching a bar on the inside, closed the opening. It all happened so quickly that Jack didn't have time to get scared. As soon as the door was closed, Jack stepped out of his hiding place and started to rejoin the boys. All of a sudden he stopped dead in his tracks and said right out loud, "Tut, tut, that was two of the men who are robbing the castle. That is either the way they get into the castle or where they hide during the day."

When Jack joined the boys he told them what he had seen. They thought he was joking at first, but he was so serious about it that they finally believed him.

"We must hustle right back to the castle now so that I can tell King Charles and the rest of the folks," said Jack.

When the boys arrived at the castle they found everything was excitement. After Jack had left the servants in the castle had found that once more the robbers had entered during the night and stolen several thousand dollars.

Worth of Jack told his story the king immediately called some of his guards and told them what Jack had seen and what he had done. They led these men back to the castle after dark, if they showed you the way up to the ruins," asked the king of Jack.

"Yes, sir," answered Jack.

"Then, as soon as it is dark we will go up to the ruins and watch that door."

He arranged for others of the guard to remain at the castle to protect it and the queen, Lady-dear and the girls. Captain Brave had charge of the guards at the castle. Jack could hardly wait for night to come.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Jamesville Daily Gazette, Wednesday, July 15, 1879.—Henry Conrad of Chicago visited the city yesterday.

C. B. Dennis of Rockford is in the city for a few days. He is a fine tenor singer and a favorite musician in Rockford.

Mrs. E. G. Burton of New Orleans is visiting her brothers, Richard and A. M. Valentine. She is accompanied by her daughter.

Miss Lewis of Chicago is visiting her sister, Mrs. A. M. Valentine.

Mr. and Mrs. O. H. Pethers entertained 40 guests in an informal but very happy manner last evening, the occasion being the twentieth anniversary of their marriage.

The hall has been renovated and repaired. Whitewashing, painting and paper hanging has added greatly to the appearance and comfort of the building. Sheriff Comstock has determined that there shall be nothing left undone to make the jail as neat as possible and it never was in as fine condition as now.

William Payne, Sandwich, Ill., is visiting in this city. He formerly resided here many years.

Last night there was a pleasant social gathering at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. S. D. Conant, under the auspices of the Girls' society of Court Street Methodist church. The lawn was beautifully illuminated and served as a pleasant playground for the older ones, while within the parlors were attractive no less pleasing. The girls made various articles which they had made. Ice cream was served and music was enjoyed.

ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

A LITTLE SLICE OF LIFE.

Under a house. There is a large cellar. That's the place to have a cellar—under the house—we know that. Or the main cellar. There is a fine sub-cellar. About six months ago we discovered this small cellar. And it looked like a good place for a certain purpose. After we began using this cellar for the certain purpose we noticed that we couldn't keep grass cutters. We had a new one every two or three days. It seemed that they would get locked up for intoxication. One after another they disappeared. And we never heard of them again. Well, yesterday we had some company for dinner and we hastened down to the little cellar for a bottle of the stuff we had stored away. The stuff was a drop left. Here after we are not going to own cellars. We are going to be a grass cutter.

Old Friend Mexican Situation is sitting on the president's desk to welcome him home.

So far as the war is concerned it seems to be all over but the shouting. Twenty-two nations are still at it.

As to prohibition, the first 50 years will be the worst.

The Prince of Wales, we don't just remember his regular name, is going to pay the U. S. a visit, and possibly he will pick out an American bride. It is said the prince doesn't care to be bored to death by high society, and would rather have a good wife. This is to inform him that our place is at his disposal. He will not be pestered by society folks there. The kids may climb over him a lot and throw sand in his ears and mark up his collar with lead pencils, but he can eat in his shirt sleeves and snore in the hammock and have an all-around good time.

When it comes to pick out a beautiful American girl for a bride, well, our neighborhood just naturally swarms with 'em. We hereby extend him an invite. If he wants to see a 100 percent American family in action, we know of no better place. Never a dull moment.

A few days ago we set out to rename the town of Erie, N. Y., to make it fit in with prohibition. Three contrabands, Dick Aaron L. Moses and Jim Clark, have suggested Erie, N. Y., so we will let it go at that. U. S. post-office department, please notice.

AUGUSTO B. LEGUIA.

Peruvian troops recently captured President Pardo and took him prisoner and then proclaimed Augusto B. Leguia president of the republic of Peru. This will be the second time that Leguia has been president of that stormy country.

At the presidential election which was held in May has been in dispute, as both Leguia and Aspillaga claim the presidency. Leguia, headed by Col. Caceres, proclaims Leguia president, every one seems to be quick to agree.

Leguia was inaugurated as president of Peru in 1908. He was succeeded by Guillermo B. Billinghurst in September, 1912. In July of last year there was considerable attack on ex-President Leguia's residence. Several of the assailants were killed or wounded. Leguia was arrested by the police and imprisoned on a charge of conspiring against the government. He was released in a few months on condition that he leave the country immediately. He came to the United States to see his two sons who were in college here, and later went to France to live. He was in this country only before in 1892 as the Peruvian representative of a New York life insurance company.

Squandering in England Called National Suicide

London.—Sir Auckland Geddes' great warning to the nation in his speech at Greve is the one topic in prominent financial circles.

City banking experts are unanimously behind Sir Auckland in his description of the nation as "a poor one living as if it were wealthy."

"Sir Auckland Geddes has struck the right note," said a famous banker. "It should have been struck before."

"If it is not a pessimist, but it is my solemn opinion, after 35 years spent in financial circles of the city, that the nation is squandering itself by a feet orgy of extravagance and laziness which has no justification whatever."

"A client of mine the other day paid out $500 for cut flowers in a week! The smaller depositors are even worse. Day after day cheques West End firms for the most unnecessary and luxurious articles. Sir Auckland Geddes is absolutely right. It is colossal squandering."

"He refers to the international exchange moving steadily against us. That is a generalization, and is not altogether supported by facts. Spain and Switzerland alone at the present time are against us, with the great exception of the United States—the one exchange that really matters."

"If England is not to suffer financial and industrial eclipse a great effort must be made, and made at once, to come on level terms with America."

"We are committing national suicide if we continue this policy of short output and rampant extravagance."

"AGENTS TO MEET."

Heart and Home Problems

BY ELIZABETH THOMPSON
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Among the many letters you must receive asking for advice, I wonder if you would care to hear from one who has no questions to ask? You are surely doing noble work. My husband and I always read your column with much interest.

We have been married 15 years and have six children. We are rich in happiness, but far from rich in money. I have been making every penny count. Perhaps if I could take time I might think out a lot of worries and perplexities, but I am so busy trying to bring up my youngsters to be sweet and clean and strong that I have very little time to think about myself. I have my home, a good, kind husband whom I love, my children and health besides. What more could a woman want?

Your advice to "Polly" was splendid. I remember shortly before my marriage, a girl friend heard that my mother-in-law was to make her home with us. She was so terrified that she had to tell me. However, I loved and I soon found out she was a woman and not a bear at all. Of course she had her faults, but so had I, many more than hers. No doubt, for I was younger and wiser. Out of various little misunderstandings at first we learned to know and love each other and my greatest sorrow was her death less than a year ago, although she had been an invalid for several years.

You probably will never know how many you have helped with advice. For I suppose people seldom write a second time as did one young boy to tell you he was going to try to take your advice. But you surely have the assurance of having done your part helping people with good, wholesome advice, and I wish you every success in your work.

"CONTENTED." Your letter is very encouraging. Many people consider my column as food for the foolish and so it is a pleasure to hear from one who sees my earnest effort to help people. "Polly" has the same chance of learning to love her mother-in-law that you had and if she makes the same effort I am sure that she will be happy in her marriage, too.

You have made your own happiness, it is easy to see. Instead of feeling poor, you feel rich because of your children and your husband's love. When the children become older and self-supporting you will have less and less financial strain and you will be rich indeed. I wish you and your family a beautiful family besides. From your sacrifices you are building present and future happiness.

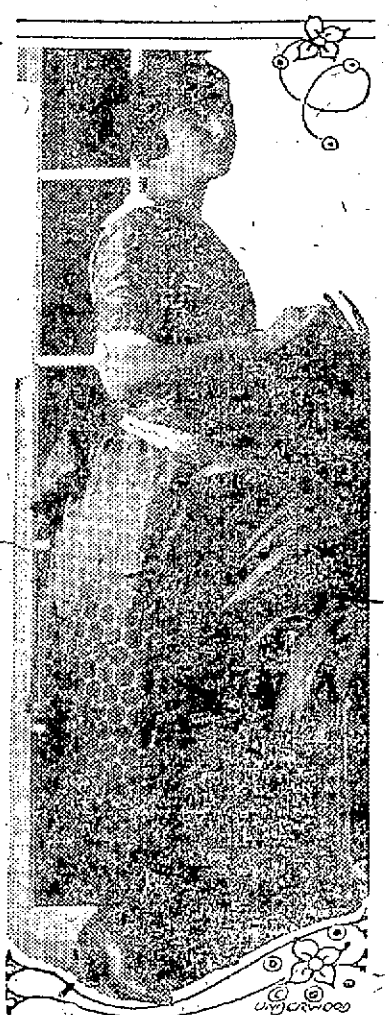

"Undecided." You are causing yourself much unnecessary worry. You have become morbid and unwell because of your uncertainty. Save your money and go to a doctor in your town if you would rather not see him. Doctors have many cases like yours and they will consider it scientifically and with only sympathy for you. Of course a doctor will keep your trouble secret. I am sure he will tell you that your condition is not serious and that it will be all right to continue your friendship with the young man in view of marrying him.

Go to the family party when the soldier returns and accept him as a friend if he wants you to.

Let me urge you again to see a physician about your condition. He will help you physically and absolutely put your mind at rest.

"M. N. O.": It would be unwise to wear a low corset and brassiere. Wear a low corset and brassiere.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.
LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

DIPHTHERIA

Babies less than a year old rarely have diphtheria. It is most frequently seen in children from 12 years old. It prevails chiefly in the autumn after the opening of the schools. About one percent of apparently healthy school children harbor the diphtheria germ in nose or throat and these "carriers" are capable of transmitting the disease to non-immune children, though not themselves affected. Children with running nose, particularly a one-sided purulent nasal discharge, are likely to be "carriers." Of course, any child with a running nose or cough or slight sore throat or alleged "cold," no matter how slight, should be excluded from school.

Before antitoxin was discovered (1890) the toxin (poison) of diphtheria proved fatal to one of each three persons attacked by the disease. Paralysis of the throat or palate, or of a limb, occurred about 20 times more frequently than we see it today—although ignorant and willful people often intimate that the patient is cured by the antitoxin. Antitoxin not only prevents paralysis and other serious complications or sequelae of diphtheria, but also saves life if used early and in sufficiently large doses. A dose of less than 10,000 units is scarcely worth giving; a dose of 30,000 units is a reasonable curative dose for a young child with diphtheria. Too much can do no harm; too little may prove disastrous.

A child with an acute sore throat and considerable fever probably has not diphtheria. A child with a mild sore throat and slight feveriness may have diphtheria.

Untreated diphtheria kills as a poison kills, and not by choking, as a rule. The poison of diphtheria, if not promptly neutralized by the antitoxin (antidote) causes degeneration of the heart muscle, which is the chief cause of death from exhaustion in diphtheria.

Progressive state health departments now furnish the best diphtheria antitoxin free or at a nominal cost of 25 cents for a dose. There is no reason why antitoxin should cost more than the most costly family car. A very large dose given very early is not only economy, but safety for the patient. If the dose is sufficient, one dose is curative.

The attending physician's opinion is still more reliable than the report of the bacteriologist who has merely examined a culture from the throat. The culture often proves "positive" (diphtheria germs present) when the patient is obviously not ill of diphtheria or perhaps quite recovered from the sore throat. However, a physician who sees no evidence of diphtheria today may find such evidence developed at the next visit. The culture is valuable as a protection to public health and should therefore be made in every case if there be the slightest suspicion of diphtheria. The physician may now determine definitely, by means of a simple test

To the Woman Who "Never Has Any Luck Putting Up Fruit and Berries"

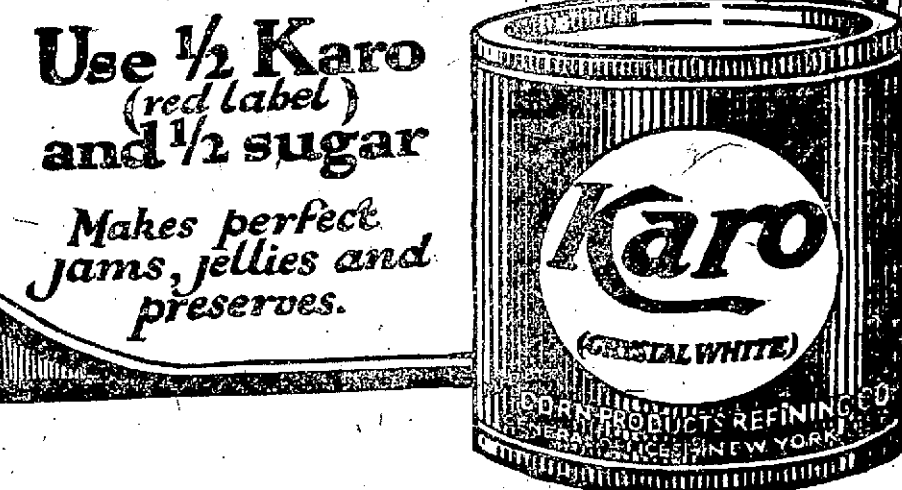

How even a Beginner can be Sure of Perfect Results in Making Jams, Jellies and Preserves

Good home preserving is now easy to accomplish. Even the housewife who "never has any luck" with all sugar preserving can put up fruit perfectly if she will first make her preserving syrup with 1/2 Karo (Red Label) and 1/2 sugar—instead of sugar alone.
By this method you can always have the finest, most delicious jams, good clear jellies, and preserves with a rich, heavy syrup.
Karo is a fine, clear syrup, with a natural affinity for the fruit juices.
It blends the fruit with the sugar, doing away with one of the great difficulties of putting up fruit at home, and just about cutting the work in half.
You can depend on it that fruit put up by this method will never grow tough or "candy" in the glass.
For Cooking, Baking and Candy Making Karo (Red Label) is used in millions of homes. In all cooking and baking recipes use Karo instead of sugar. It is sweet, of delicate flavor, and brings out the natural flavor of the food.

FREE The experienced housewife as well as the beginner will find unusual interest in the new sixty-eight page Corn Products Cook Book. Beautifully illustrated—and suggestions galore for preserving, etc. It is free—write us today for it.

The Daily Novelette

IF AT FIRST YOU DON'T SUCCEED.
Rushon Rowne's little girl, Gord, five was getting worn out. What was the matter? Rushon Rowne was to the city each day, some miles to the movies each night and several runs around the block before he can stop her. The poor little thing's insides were about worn out.

So Rushon Rowne has the flaver insured and by the time he sees a bargain in a new one which is eleven months later, he runs into the biggest truck he can find.

Fortunately, he escapes with only a broken cut-throat razor and goes to the insurance company with joy in his heart and orders another car on the day in anticipation of the $200.

"A-hem," said the insurance claim agent. "Did you run into the truck?" "Surest thing you know," answered Rowne, jovially, "and the force of the impact throttled her wind-shield, twisted her piston-rod, gave her body a torsional strain and, wrenched off the spoon bit."

"Well, I'm sorry, Mr. Rowne, but you only get insurance with your policy when something runs into you. Good-day."

With a daring "damn," Rushon Rowne left the office, resolved to get that insurance money or die.

(A month later)

"Foot-loot!" It was the Constable Lightning Express and Rushon Rowne was crossing the track. He stopped it right in the middle and jumped out—not a second too soon.

"After the express had gone, by, Rushon Rowne looked for his car. 'My Gord!' he exclaimed. 'Not a nut of her left. Hooryay!'"

And he hid him once more to the insurance company.

After looking over his books a while, the insurance agent raised his head. Rushon Rowne was ready with pen in hand, to sign a receipt for the money.

"Don't forget," he said. "The train ran into ME this time."

"The sorry, sir, but your policy ran out yesterday. Under the circumstances, we can't."

"What was enough. With a roar like a wounded hyena, he jumped wildly out the window, and crashed to the earth—live feet below.

"Yes, they would, mamma! So what does it matter if I say somep'm to him he didn't like? That kind of people, I don't see why you can't say anything you want to to 'em!"

"No, Georgie. And you haven't answered me whether you said that dreadful thing he says you did."

"Well," said Georgie. "Anyway, he said somep'm to me that made me mad." And upon this point he offered no further details; he would not explain to his mother that what had made him "mad" was Mr. Smith's hasty condemnation of herself: "Your mother ought to be ashamed," and "A woman that lets a bad boy like you—"

Georgie did not even consider excusing himself by quoting these insolences.

Isabel stroked his head. "They were terrible words for you to use, dear. From his letter he doesn't seem a very tactful person, but—"

"He's just ruffian," said Georgie. "You mustn't say so," his mother gently agreed. "Where did you learn those bad words he speaks of? Where did you hear anyone use them?"

"Well, I've heard 'em several places. I guess Uncle George Amberson was the first I ever heard say 'em. Uncle George Amberson said 'em to papa once. Papa didn't like it, but Uncle George was just laughing at papa, and then he said 'em while he was laughing."

"That was wrong of him," she said, but almost instinctively he detected the lack of conviction in her tone. It was Isabel's great failing that whatever an Amberson did seemed right to her, especially if the Amberson was either her brother George or her son George. "You must promise me," she said feebly, "never to use those bad words again."

"I promise not to," he said promptly—and he whispered an immediate codicil under his breath: "Unless I get mad at somebody!" This satisfied a code according to which, in his own sincere belief, he never told lies.

Tobacco Habit Dangerous

says Doctor Connor, formerly of John Hopkins hospital. Thousands of men suffering from fatal diseases would be in perfect health today were it not for the deadly drug, nicotine. Stop the habit now before it's too late. It's a simple process to rid yourself of the nicotine habit in any form. Just go to any up-to-date drug store and get some Nicotol tablets; take them as directed and in the period of a week quickly vanishes. Druggists refund the money if they fail. Be sure to read large and interesting announcement by Doctor Connor soon to appear in this paper. It tells of the dangers of nicotine poisoning and how to avoid it. In the meantime try Nicotol tablets; you will be surprised at the result.

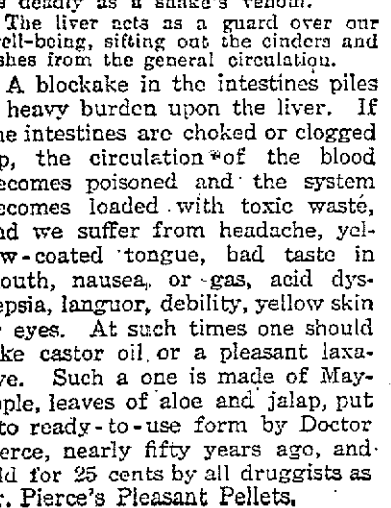

Don't worry about your skin Resinol cleared mine completely

If you are embarrassed by a pimply, blotchy, unsightly complexion, try Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap regularly for a week and see if they do not begin to make a blessed difference in your skin. Resinol Soap and Resinol Ointment are sold by all druggists. Try them and see how beneficial they are not only for the skin but for the hair, too.

A Coated Tongue? What it Means

A bad breath, coated tongue, bad taste in the mouth, languor and debility, are usually signs that the liver is out of order. Doctor Henry Foster says: "The liver is an organ of importance only to the heart." We can manufacture poisons within our own bodies which are as deadly as a snake's venom. The liver acts as a guard over our well-being, sitting out the cinders and ashes from the general circulation. A blockage in the intestines piles a heavy burden upon the liver. If the intestines are choked or clogged up, the circulation of the blood becomes poisoned and the system becomes loaded with toxic waste, and we suffer from headache, yellow-coated tongue, bad taste in mouth, nausea, or gas, acid dyspepsia, languor, debility, yellow skin or eyes. At such times one should take castor oil or a pleasant laxative. Such a one is made of Mayapple, leaves of aloe and jalap, put into ready-to-use form by Doctor Pierce, nearly fifty years ago, and sold for 25 cents by all druggists as Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets.

"That's a good boy," she said, and he ran out to the yard, his punishment over. As an Amberson he was already a public character, and the story of his adventure in the Rev. Malloch Smith's front yard became a town topic. Many people glanced at him with great distaste thereafter, when they chanced to encounter him, which meant nothing to Georgie, because he innocently believed most grown people to be necessarily cross looking as a normal phenomenon resulting from the adult state; and he failed to comprehend that the distasteful glances had any personal bearing upon himself. If he had perceived such a bearing he would have been affected only so far, probably, as to mutter, "Ruffian!" Possibly he would have shouted it; and certainly most people believed a story that went round the town just after Mrs. Amberson's funeral, when Georgie was eleven. Georgie was reported to have differed with the undertaker about the seating of the family; his indignant voice had become audible: "Well, who is the most important person at my own grandmother's funeral?" And later he had projected his head from the window of the foremost mourners' carriage, as the undertaker happened to pass. "Ruffian!" There were people—grown people they were—who expressed themselves longingly: they did hope to live to see the day, they said, when that boy would get his come-uppance! (They used that honest word, so much better than "deserts," and not until many years later to be more clumsily rendered as "what is coming to him.") Something was bound to take him down some day, and they only wanted to be there! But Georgie heard nothing of this, and the yearners for his taking down went unsatisfied, while their yearning grew the greater as the happy day of fulfillment was longer and longer postponed.

CHAPTER III.

Until he reached the age of twelve Georgie's education was a domestic process; tutors came to the house, and those citizens who yearned for his taking down often said: "Just wait till he has to go to public school; then he'll get it!" But at twelve Georgie was sent to a private school in the town, and there came from this small and independent institution no report, or even rumor, of Georgie's getting anything that he was thought to deserve; therefore the yearning still persisted, though growing faint with feeding upon itself.

The yearners were still yearning when Georgie at sixteen was sent away to a great "prep school." "Now," they said brightly, "he'll get it! He'll find himself among boys just as important in their home town as he is, and they'll knock the stuffing out of him, when he puts on his airs with them! Oh, but that would be worth something to see!" They were mistaken, it appeared, for when Georgie returned a few months later he still seemed to have the same stuffing. He had been deposed by the authorities, the offense being stated as "insolence and profanity," in fact, he had given the principal of the school instructions almost identical with those formerly objected to by the Rev. Malloch Smith.

But he had not got his come-uppance, and those who counted upon it were embittered by his appearance upon the downtown streets driving a dog-cart at a criminal speed, making pedestrians retreat from the crossings, and behaving himself as if he "owned the earth." When Mr. George Amberson Minner came home for the holidays at Christmastide in his sophomore year, probably no great change had taken place inside him, but his exterior was visibly altered. Nothing about him encouraged any hope that he had received his come-uppance; on the contrary, the yearners for that stroke of justice must yearn even more itchingly: the gilded youth's manner had become polite, but his politeness was of a kind which democratic people found hard to bear.

Cards were out for a ball in his honor, and this, pageant of the tenantry was held in the ballroom of the Amberson mansion the night after his arrival. It was, as Mrs. Henry Franklin Foster said of Isabel's wedding, "a big Amberson-style thing." All "old citizens" recognized as gentry received cards, and of course so did their dancing dependants. The orchestra and the caterer were brought from away, in the Amberson manner, though this was really a gesture—perhaps one more of habit than of ostentation—for servants of gentry were nowadays to be found in the town. It was the last of the great, long-remembered dances that "everybody talked about"—there were getting to be so many people in town that no later than the next year there were too many for "everybody" to hear of even such a ball as the Ambersons'.

George, white-gloved, with a gardenia in his buttonhole, stood with his mother and the Major, embowered in the big red-and-gold drawing room downstairs, to "receive" the guests; and, standing thus together, the trio offered a picturesque example of good looks persistent through three generations. The Major, his daughter and his grandson were of a type all Amberson: tall, straight and regular, with dark eyes, short noses, good chins; and the grandfather's expression, no less than the grandson's, was one of faintly amused condescension. There was a difference, however. The grandson's unlined young face had nothing to offer except this condescension; the grandfather's had other things to say. It was a handsome, worldly old face, conscious of its importance, but persuasive rather than arrogant, and not without tokens of sufferings withstood. The Major's short white hair was parted in the middle, like his grandson's, and in all he stood as briskly equipped to the fashion as the exquisite young George.

Isabel, standing between her father and her son, caused a vague amazement in the mind of the latter. Her age, just under forty, was for George a thought of something as remote as the moons of Jupiter; he could not possibly have conceived such an age ever coming to be his own; five years was the limit of his thinking in time. Five years ago he had been a child not yet fourteen; and those five years were an abyss. Five years hence he would be almost twenty-four; what the girls he knew called "one of the older men." He could imagine himself at twenty-four, but beyond that his powers staggered and refused. The task, he saw little essential difference between thirty-eight and eighty-eight, and his mother was to him not a woman but wholly a mother. The woman, Isabel, was a stranger to her son; as completely a stranger as he son; as he had never in his life seen her or heard her voice. And it was tonight, while he stood with her, "receiving," that he caught a disquieting glimpse of this stranger whom he thus fleetingly encountered for the first time.

Youth cannot imagine romance apart from youth. That is why the roles of the heroes and heroines of plays are given by the managers to the most youthful actors they can find among the competent. Both middle-aged people and young people enjoy a play about young lovers; but only middle-aged people will tolerate a play about middle-aged lovers; young people will not come to see such a play, because for them middle-aged lovers are a joke—not a very funny one. Therefore, to bring both the middle-aged people and the young people into his house, the manager makes his romance as young as he can. Youth will indeed be served, and its profound instinct is to be not only scornfully amused but vaguely angered by middle-aged romance. So, standing beside his mother, George was disturbed by a sudden impression, coming upon him out of nowhere, so far as he could detect, that her eyes were brilliant, that she was graceful and youthful—in a word that she was romantically lovely.

He had one of those curious moments that seem to have neither a cause nor any connection with actual things. There was nothing in either her looks or her manner to explain George's uncomfortable feeling; and yet it increased, becoming suddenly a vague resentment, as if she had done something unmotherly to him.

Dinner Stories

One of the prominent pugilists was engaged in a training bout with a negro sparring partner. A big crowd was present, and the darky's employer was anxious to make an impression.

"Come closer," he whispered, while the two were in a clinch. "I can't get a square wallop at you when you stand off that way and refuse to mix things."

"Yass," the colored boy answered. "Ah'm coming closer in a minute; Ah was jest sayin' mah prayers."

"How did Constable Shackleput get hurt?" asked the washing machine agent.

"He says he was run over by a bunch of joy riders," replied the landlord of the Petunia tavern. "But there is a hoarse rumor going around that he fell asleep while cracking a lady's Ford, and she, thinking he was through with the job, started forward and surged athwart him, as they say in stories."

A brother senator was twitting Senator Jones of New Mexico on the illiteracy of the vast majority of his constituents.

"It's all a matter of the point of view," retorted Senator Jones. "When it comes to breeding and education, I am reminded of the self-sufficient young matron in the Pullman car."

"Mary," she said to her eight-year-old daughter, "don't you see the people looking at you? Stop stretching your arm out into a string. Chew it like a lady."

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Most soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mul-sified coconut oil shampoo (which is pure and greaseless), and is better than anything else you can use.

One or two teaspoonsful will cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excessive oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy and easy to manage.

You can get Mul-sified coconut oil shampoo at any pharmacy, it's very cheap, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

Famo Must Grow Hair or Money is Returned

FAMO is sold by the druggist named in this advertisement, on a positive money-back basis. Unless you are absolutely satisfied with FAMO, you may return the bottle to the druggist and he will refund your money.

But we know you will not have to take advantage of this offer. The results achieved by FAMO are so wonderful that every purchaser is more than satisfied.

FAMO destroys the dandruff bacilli; it stops all scalp itching; it checks the deadly seborrheal excretion which causes dandruff and makes the hair and scalp healthy.

There has never been anything like the way FAMO nourishes the hair. Even where baldness has appeared, FAMO will encourage and stimulate a growth of new hair—unless the roots are absolutely dead.

New, luxuriant hair appears when FAMO is used regularly. When FAMO is used, the seborrheal microbe dies. The dandruff disappears.

Nature has its way. The hair flourishes as it never did before. Grayness is retarded because FAMO contains no alcohol.

The persistent use of alcohol on the head causes grayness and falling hair. When you use FAMO you can see the difference almost from the first application. The natural color is intensified—the hair has a new lustre and sheen.

The hair grows like the hair of a healthy child. The scalp is as clean as a baby's—the hair luxuriant and soft.

FAMO is the result of three years of careful experimentation in the laboratories of one of the oldest pharmaceutical houses in Detroit.

Before it was offered to the public, it had been tried and tested and had proven the wonderful results it accomplishes.

FAMO is the answer of scientists to the ravages of the seborrheal bacilli which cause unhealthy hair. Even if dandruff has not made its appearance, you should use FAMO to keep the scalp and hair healthy and make the hair fluffy and beautiful.

FAMO comes in two sizes—35 cents and an extra large bottle at $1.00. It is sold at all toilet goods counters.

Seborrhea is a morbidly increased flow from the sebaceous glands of the scalp. The seborrheal excretion forms in scales or flakes and is commonly known as dandruff. Mfd. by The Famo Co., Detroit, Mich. PEOPLE'S DRUG CO. Special Famo Agents

"I Found $36.40 in My Garret"

John noticed the new library lamp at once and he raised his eyebrows questioningly.

"I bought it with some money I found in the garret, John," I hastened to explain. "There were several things up there which I had almost forgotten. They were of no further use to us, so I put an ad in The Gazette and sold them for $36.40. It was just like finding the money itself."

"No, I did not move your roll-top desk," I continued, anticipating John's question. "But I did sell that enamel bed and springs for $9, and the gas range for $7, and that little ice chest for $3.50, and I got $16.90 for that old mahogany chifftoneir, making $36.40 in all."

If there are things in YOUR attic for which you have no further use, why not change them into cash and buy the articles you need?

Simply make a list of what you have to sell and send an advertisement to The Gazette. Gazette Ads will find a buyer for these discarded articles.

OWN YOUR OWN HOME

WHAT joy it would be to have a home all your own, built as a home should be built, arranged as you've always wanted your house, everything ordered as you want it, when you want it—your own yard and a cottage garden!

There's nothing like owning a home to make a man realize that he's a substantial citizen, or to give people the confidence in him he deserves.

You can't measure the value of owning your own home on a dollars and cents basis alone—and yet with rents still on the increase and the price of building stabilized, probably for years to come, home building and home owning never was a better investment.

Just add to that the satisfaction and contentment for your wife, a better place for the babies to grow up, a more "liveable" environment—

BUILD NOW!

A safe Investment? Your house and lot are as safe as a bond. There is an unprecedented market now for improved property—you can "cash in" at once if you wish. Five years hence, even though building prices slowly settle to a lower level, the tremendous building activity that must come in the meantime will give your investment a substantial increase in value.

Prices will hold steady for years! You'll surely build some day and you'll never find a more opportune time than now

DO you hesitate because you think prices are too high and you'll wait for them to drop? You're making a mistake, for prices must stay at a high level for years.

Consider the facts! There's a tremendous market in Europe and here at home for everything we can make—the fundamental law of supply and demand must work. We have an unprecedented amount of gold in the country, and when there is more money in circulation and no great increase in production, we simply pass more gold around for our goods. We have high prices in figures—but not in reality; for if wages are higher and goods are higher, the balance remains the same. So long as the gold stays here, prices will hold up. In short, business men say unreservedly that if prices go down at all, it will be very, very slowly. In the meantime, rents are higher and you pay relatively more to live—as great a proportion as though you built your home at present figures.

WE urge you to build because you will not only help yourself, but you will help relieve the housing situation in our city. If this city is to prosper we must have places to live. The home that you build will add permanent value, add to the wealth and prosperity of the entire city, give us opportunity to expand.

And if we can make you realize that it is to your advantage to build now, you will help start the wheels of industry. You will put men to work producing—the $7,500 you spend will call for materials and supplies. The Government asks you to build now to give returning soldiers work in factories and trades. In short, you'll not only help yourself but you'll help this community, the nation, and society as a whole.

We would be glad to talk this matter over individually with you—ask the advice of business men immediately and have them confirm what we say. And then
